The Proprietors of the DAILY PRESS offer to the public a complete newspaper, into which more matter is condensed than is contained in some dailies of much greater pretensions in size, and which they furnish at a price that brings it within the reach of every man and woman in Cincinnati, who are able to labor.

We ask a fair comparison of the Press with the other papers of this city or of any other city, and the judgment of our readers whether we do not furnish a paper equally attractive at one-half, or less than half the cost of the other Cincinnati dailies.

The DAILY PRESS, since it came under the present management, has increased rapidly in circulation, and has now probably as large a circulation within the city of Cincinnati as any other journal, and is increasing at a rate equal to the most sanguine expectations of its proprietors.

From its large circulation, and from its size which makes advertisements much more conspicuous than they can be in the larger papers, THE DAILY PRESS offers the most valuable advertising medium in this city. Its advertising business has largely increased, and its columns are a respectable exhibit of the best and enterprise of the city. Its columns are especially looked to for a large class of advertisements of "Want" and "For Sale," and for servants, which almost invariably bring prompt answers.

People who are out of employment, or who want help of any kind, can place their needs before thousands of the laboring and employing classes by a twenty-five cent advertisement in THE DAILY PRESS.

The DAILY PRESS has also a large circulation in Covington and Newport, and exceeds the aggregate of all the other Cincinnati papers.

Business men in Cincinnati can in no way increase their business so easily and certainly as by advertising in this paper.

Butes can be easily established for THE DAILY PRESS in any of the towns within a day's distance of Cincinnati by railroads, and carriers will find that a little energy and labor will build up routes which will be valuable to them; and the great number of one-cent paper can be distributed in almost any town, will furnish a handsome income to the carrier.

GRAPE VINE CUTTINGS.—If any one has not a hothouse to propagate vines from single eyes, we would advise him to try cuttings. Choose well-ripened wood and cut it into pieces with three buds on each. Two buds are set below the surface, so that if one of them fails to emit roots, the other may do so. Prepare a good, well-spaded plot, and make trenches a foot deep, by drawing a garden-tine from one side of the patch to the other, sprinkle an inch or more of sand at the bottoms of the trenches, and then lay in the cuttings obliquely, and fill up with good soil. The sand will facilitate the formation of roots. The cuttings should be set so deep as to leave not more than an inch with one bud above ground. If the summer proves to be dry one, the ground should be watered and also be mulched around the vines.

TIME FOR CORN PLANTING.—Comprising as our country does all sorts of climates differing it does to the extent of at least six or eight weeks in the earliness or lateness of its season, it is impossible to fix upon any particular time as the best. This difference is the difference of seasons, even in the same state, that the day which might be right in one section, would be from ten days to two weeks too late or too early in another. In view of such difference, the only safety is to be found in saying, that "when the frost is completely out of the ground, and when the leaf of the oak is as big as the squirrel's ear" is the best time for planting; and that early planting in a series of years, is generally found to be best.—American Farmer.

BLOODY MURKIN.—I had a two-year-old heifer taken with that disease about the close of last year. At first I supposed the sickness to be hellebore, or dry-murrain—but soon saw proof unmistakable of large quantities of blood passing out with the urine. First I gave a dose of saltpetre and epsom salts dissolved in chamber-lye—about a table-spoonful of saltpetre and two of salts. In about three hours gave a handful of salt mixed with sulphur; in three hours, a dose same as at first, after which I saw no signs of the disease. Since then, time has been very healthy, and her condition become exceedingly fat.—Rural New Yorker.

THE TAYLOR GRAPE.—What has become of it? We heard certain good judges speak highly of this grape last fall, but of late nothing is said about it. It failed from Cleveland, Ohio, and appears to be an undoubted native, perfectly hardy, and of surpassing excellence. Mr. Thomas Mann of Germantown, advised us to be "decidedly the best native grape of some seventy kinds which he had tested last year, (1859.) The leading members of the Philadelphia Horticultural Society held the same opinion." A grape which promises to stand by the side of the Delaware and Rebecca, should be looked after.

CURE FOR FOUNDER.—A speedy, safe and certain remedy for founder in the feet of horses, is contributed to the Cotton Planter by a writer who testifies to its value. He says: "Cotton is the only plant whose rootlets can be washed by spraying off all the dirt. Hence the foot as to be level—perpendicular, perpendicular, a sufficient quantity, so as not to run over the hoof, then set the longitudinal on fire, and let it be entirely consumed."

AN EXTRASORDINARY AQUARIUM.—A very aquarium is being kept in Philadelphia, for the Continental Hotel. It is nearly twenty feet square, its depth one foot, and is divided into two compartments, and its object is to afford a receptacle in which turtle, lobsters, terrapins, etc., can be fattened for the table. It is the biggest tank of the kind now extant.

To encourage the formation of Clubs TWELVE DAPERS will be sent to one address for NINE DOLLARS and a greater number in that ratio.

THE WEEKLY PRESS will be a complete Family Journal, second in the merit and variety of its contents, to no paper in the country. This, and the low price at which it is offered, especially to clubs, is expected to give it a large circulation, both North and South.

SAVE THE PIECES!

ECONOMY! DINAPATUM!
"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE."

As accidents will happen, even in well-organized families, it is very desirable to have some cheap and convenient way for repairing Furniture, Toys, Crocks, &c.

SPALDING'S PREPARED GLUE!
Meets all such occasions, and so inexpensively as afford to be without it. It is always ready and up to the sticking point. There is no longer a necessity for liming chairs, splintered veneers, headless dolls and broken cradles. It is just the article for cones, shell and other ornamental work, so popular with ladies and young girls.

This admirable preparation is not only, being the quality of the best cabinet-makers' glue, it may be used in the place of ordinary mastic, being vastly more adhesive.
